You have extensive notes in your exercise books - read through them to consolidate your knowledge and understanding.

Use your knowledge organisers to guide your revision. It's essential that you memorise all the key information on each and can apply the knowledge in context. Create revision cards and test yourself regularly.

The mini quizzes and retrieval tests you've completed over the course provide an invaluable bank of questions. Complete the questions again under timed conditions.

You should have topic companions combining essential study notes for every chapter you've covered. Attempt the multiple choice and practice questions for each topic as part of your revision. I'll post the answers on the google classroom 5gshqzs

Redo all past exam questions and papers. Please go over advice you've been given regarding how to structure your answers and model responses.
